Guest Worker Health Plan

Anticipating that guest worker legislation may be enacted, Sekure Healthcare completed the first working model of a healthcare benefit plan for future guest workers from Mexico. The Guest Worker Care PPO Plan uses a new employee-benefits trend known as "transportability." This concept allows future Mexican guest workers to receive healthcare benefits in the U.S., while providing healthcare benefits to eligible family dependents in Mexico. Sekure Healthcare already has an extensive provider network throughout the U.S. and Mexico. Under the plan, future guest workers could build up a reserve of healthcare coverage credit during their U.S. employment, which could be used upon their return to Mexico. Sekure Healthcare, which was founded in response to the lack of affordable healthcare options for employers and their uninsured workers, already operates a medical savings employee benefit program paid by the employer. It provides patient advocacy, healthcare network discounts, and bilingual phone assistance to members on both sides of the border. Employers can combine Sekure Healthcare's medical savings program with a limited benefits health insurance plan. Sekure Healthcare's medical savings program, coupled with a limited benefit insurance plan, starts at less than $200 a month for a worker and their family.
